FOREWORD

To be a true mirror for the reflection of the student life and activity of N.A.C.; to be a book of pleasant recollections, one of which will be a permanent remembrance of the spirit of good fellowship pervading our school; to remind us of the privilege we had to obtain a college education: such has been the purpose of the staff in publishing the 1960 Cornucopia.

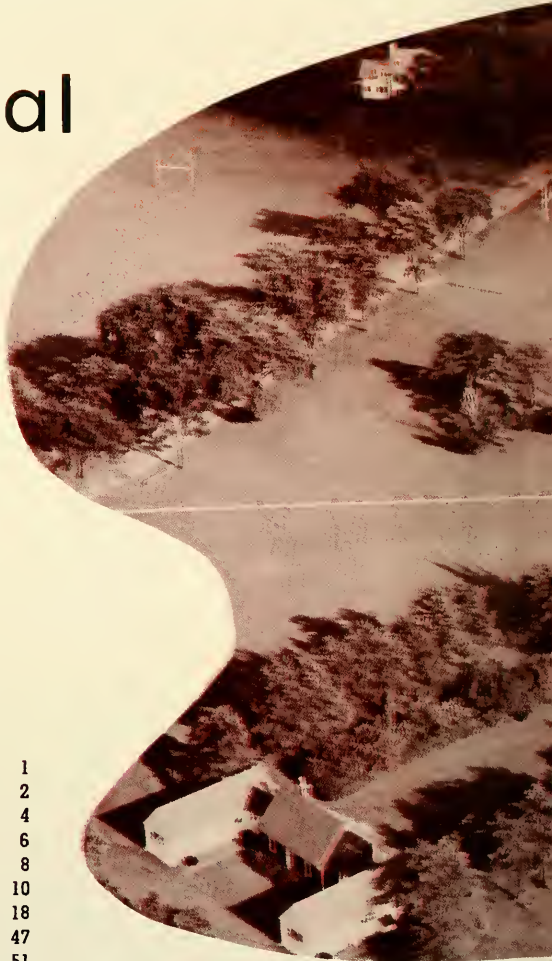

Co-Editors: Anthony Fritchey, Lorenzo Fonseca M.

Cornucopia

This is a bird's-eye view of the main campus and center of all activities of the new Delaware Valley College of Agriculture and Science.

Delaware Valley College

I we dedicate

DR. WEBSTER, because you have a constant abiding interest in every student and strive selflessly to give him what you know is best; Enrich us because of your vast experience and abounding knowledge; Inspire countless numbers of students because you have pinned your character; because your teaching is centered around love—love for learning, love for fellow humans and love for agriculture; because you showed indomitable energy in all that you do; do everything honestly, fairly and justly. Because while you are humble; it is with deep and sincere admiration and gratitude that we give you in dedication this book.

president

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE CLASS OF 1960:

You have reached the end of an educational process that began four years ago when you entered National Agricultural College. Throughout these four years your education, in every way the word implies, was uppermost in the minds of the Administration and Faculty.

Now that you are to be numbered among our Alumni, you will be no less close to us than you were as students. It is our sincere hope that success and happiness will follow you wherever you go, and that through you the College will gain in stature.

I extend to you my personal congratulations.

Sincerely yours,

James Work

DONALD M. MEYER

Dean of Students

A man whose guidance and perseverance, in all matters concerning us, has meant increased knowledge and understanding for everyone in their stay at N.A.C.

OSKAR H. LARSSON

Assistant Dean of Students

Whether problems were primary or secondary, Mr. Larsson has always been ready with a solution for anyone's troubles; one which would be sure to aid us in our future trials that lay ahead.

deans

Segal Hall, the hall of learning, where most lectures and laboratories originate.

Junior and Senior Dormitories, where cards, sleep, study, and relaxation are the order and one can indulge in these as they meet his fancy.

on campus

Horticultural Building, horticulture and all its problems are solved here.

Greenhouse Department, Ornamental Horticulture and its students keep the school in flowers.

Lasker Hall, where three times a day everyone sits, talks, and eats in an atmosphere of shouts and waiters.

Faculty House, the buildings of offices for professors and President and from which all decisions concerning the college are heard.

Ida M. Block Memorial Chapel, the quiet building that serves as a place of worship for all at any time.

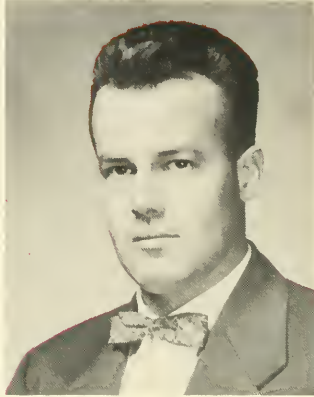

New Dormitories, the site of much activity as the college expands and makes ready for more students.

ALMA MATER

By the winding banks of Neshaminy,
Stands our Alma Mater dear.
We look o'er your fields we love,
Cherished year by year.
All hail your colors, Green and Gold
As they proudly wave on high.
Treasured mem'ries fond and true
In our hearts will lie.

With your inspiration great,
Ever forward we will go.
Fearless of the tasks ahead,
Conquering each foe.
To you our College let us sing,
Praises of your honored name.
Courage, strength and unity
Courage, strength and unity
Build an endless fame.

CLASS HISTORY

Here we are sitting in front of the Big Green Platform, all our friends and relatives are seated behind us. We look around us and see our fellow classmates gathered together for probably the last time. In front of us Dean Meyer is reading off the list of graduates and one by one, each man walks forward to receive his diploma, that simple sheet of paper for which he has labored four years.

As we sit here waiting for our name to be called, our minds wander and we remember that very first day . . .

It all started on September 18, 1956, most of us were freshly out of high school and looking forward to college life. We arrived on campus, glanced around, registered and took our luggage to the room that had been assigned to us. How small that room looked, but we soon became experts at the art of using every available inch of space.

Then that first week, with everyone rising bright and early for breakfast (this was to become a chore as the years progressed), all those placement tests, the trips around campus to acquaint ourselves with the college facilities, the talks given by the various professors and finally settling down and meeting our fellow classmates.

the class of

When the second week started, somehow we sensed something was foul when we saw those 'ever popular' sophomores. All they wanted to do was to help us become acquainted with the rules and regulations of the college. We did feel, however, that they might have been a little more diplomatic in their ways. Remember those little dinky hats . . . the wood pile (20x20 feet by homecoming) . . . "whose turn to drive the tractor" . . . "C'mon freshman, let's hear you quack" . . . "Let's see you rip up that sign" . . . the pile . . . and Ginkgo Lane where we soon learned that it was indeed terrible to step on that helpless Ginkgo Berry.

Finally the big day came — the annual rope pull between the freshmen and the sophomores. If we won, hazing would be over . . . however, if we lost, we would have to face another week under the merciless clutches of the sophomores. Of course you know the result; we never did find out what caused our side to be muddy and theirs to be nice and dry.

However, hazing soon ended and we settled down to a somewhat normal life. Now was the time to become acquainted with the upper classmen. The bull sessions, with topics ranging from sex to politics and religion, going on at all times both night and day.

How our class was organized that first year! Tell us, fellows, who really won that beer bottle throwing contest? One of life's little lessons. Remember the big water fight in Ullman Hall against the sophomores; the water was cascading down the stairs like a water fall; I'm sure Mr. G. really appreciated our little sessions. Third floor Ullman Hall — remember those Ginkgo berries in your bed, George? . . . those shaving cream fights . . . the night Mr. G. cleared the dorm because of excessive noise; what happened that night, Lenny?, you should remember it well . . . and of course there were those who found sleeping on bed springs far more comfortable than mattresses . . . Second floor Ullman Hall — We hear this was the floor Mr. G. lived on. Was it really quiet down there, boys? . . . Tell us, Frank, what did Mr. G. say that night of the dust storm . . . then there was Gabe B. and his wanderings, speeding good will along with other things . . . Mennens shaving lotion . . . Remember Marty Unim, Woody Woodruff, Al Shreeman, and those wild parties on Friday nite . . . that one blast which ended up with little Joe under the bed; how did you ever get him out, Al? . . . Room 215, headquarters.

I'm sure everyone remembers the first College weekend because this one ended rather uniquely. The weekend started off quietly, but was climaxed by the accidental burning of the gym, which two hours earlier had held a real Western Hoedown. No one was injured, but in less than an hour all that remained of the "old" wooden structure was twisted pipe and a battered foundation. We were the last class to enjoy a college weekend in the old gym and the first to appreciate having a college weekend in the new gym. Our objective in that first college weekend was to put on a talent show. I'm sure the part everyone enjoyed was the chorus line; the girls, however, didn't quite look as feminine as they might have.

Before we knew it, Christmas vacation was on us, and everyone went home to enjoy Mom's cooking and take advantage of the festivities. Upon returning we were faced with our first finals.

Second semester started off no greater than the first with no excitement except that we ended the first semester on Friday and started the second semester on Monday. How about the times the fellows in the room below you, Barry, thought the floor was coming down; you could have told them the trouble. Our first attempt at a college dance never did materialize because of some trouble with the administration, but we gained from experience.

The biggest event of the year was the annual "A" day. Here we showed our parents and friends that we had been working during the year. I'm sure one of the surprises of the year was Frank McConnell being awarded Grand Champion Showman; nice going, Frank. Many others of us also received different awards.

Soon the first year drew to a close. We took some more finals and after a week at home, arrived back to take eight weeks of Practical Agriculture. This was a combination of fun and hard work. Remember those parties at night, especially that one night, Tony Remsen, when Mr. G. objected to the little bingo party. We couldn't help it if it was two o'clock in the morning.

We still can't see what good the combined effect to end the practice football field did, because two weeks after we completed putting it in, football practice began.

After a very eventful Summer Practice, we went home to five weeks of good food and rest.

Coming back that second year, we were first welcomed by the smiling face of Dean Meyers at registration. We had lost a few classmates but we had a fairly well-united class. This was our year to be the "ever popular sophomores and it was our duty to see the incoming freshman started off on the right foot. Those early morning sessions were tiring; I don't know who suffered more — the freshmen or us. The night before the annual rope pull, we took all the freshmen out on a mid-nite jaunt, but during this outing one of our classmates, Hal Deitrich, broke a leg. Although we won the rope pull and hazing continued another week, this put a sour note on the whole thing and we were glad when hazing finally ended.

Sophomore year was quieter than our freshman year probably because we had become accustomed to college life and had adjusted ourselves to it. Early in the fall we held our annual dance and this time we had better luck than the previous year. We held it off campus at the William Penn Inn, and all that attended seemed to enjoy it. Of course, sophomore year saw frequent trips to such places of interest as the Rainbow Inn, Boyles, De Sousas, Bristol, Anns — just to mention a few.

Remember that soils hike we took second semester with Dr. Elson; we were looking for various soil samples and wandered into the woods. Maybe it was a wood chuck that took off Dr. Elson's shoe

...remember, George?

"A" day 1958 was the first year it was a two-day affair. It would have gone over well, but weather hindered us with rain. After "A" day and finals, most of us went out to find jobs in our respective fields. This was a bad year for everyone because we were in the recession, people were out of work and college students were finding it difficult obtaining jobs. Most of us did find work, however, and after the summers experience of trying to coordinate our knowledge with our jobs we were back to start our junior year. Academically we were carrying harder subjects; anywhere from Physics to Farm Machinery.

For the annual Christmas parade in Doylestown, the Ornamental Horticulture major built a float which brought praises from everyone who saw it.

Socially we held the Junior Dance in the spring of the year. As our funds were low, the dance was held in Lasker Hall but everyone who attended commented on the decorations and said that they had had a good time.

"A" day was held for two days again, however, this year the weather was better. The new gym was started and everyone had visions of what it was to look like.

Final exams and summer recess followed, with jobs coming easier to us than they had the year before.

After the summer's work we came back to assume the role as seniors B.M.O.C. (Big Men On Campus). Now we could "look down on everyone. We had come a long way to get the esteem of the upperclassmen.

The senior dorm became the home for most of us, with some living in Ullman Hall as well as off campus. A few fellows had chosen to get married and were either living in town or close by.

This year we saw the able president of our class, Ed Stickle, become president of the Student Council; it couldn't have happened to a better guy. Then we buckled down to finish our courses and organize our class activities which would terminate by Commencement Day in May. The yearbook editors, Tony Fritchey and Lorenzo Fonseca, started organizing different committees to work on the yearbook. Don Gregg ran around collecting dues and signing checks; he was our money man.

Our class held the college weekend in the new gym and we became the first senior class to give a college weekend in the new gym. The dance on Saturday night proved interesting because too much dance wax had been put on the floor and couples were actually sliding around. N. Linta, our Athletic Director, came to the rescue and took a good deal of it off with a broom.

Our senior field trips went over great, especially the F. I. Boys in a certain 53 Pontiac. I don't think your driving made any difference in your mark, Neil.

Socially, those little nightly get-togethers at Al Silverman's house were one of the only forms until Al's wife got mad at a few boys for one particular birthday party.

That's about how the last year went — wild times, studying hard and always that anticipation of Graduation Day in May as it kept coming closer and closer.

Now our college days at N.A.C. have ended. For some of us it will mean starting graduate school, starting a new way of life through marriage and working, an opportunity to match knowledge to experience or going into the Armed Services. Whatever we do, wherever we go, we will never forget those memories which are imbedded in our minds forever.

DVC

The Agronomy Club, although a relatively new club on campus, has been fairly active with field trips to Cornell University, Beltsville, Maryland, and various farming operations in the surrounding communities. We have tried to show, through films, the various types and phases of agriculture that encompass Agronomy to give the students an idea of the opportunities in the field. Speakers from the Soil Conservation Service have enlightened us on their jobs and the opportunities with the State and Federal Government along these lines.

In action this is one of Coach Chiodi's favorite ground gainers, the off tackle power play. The play depends upon the key block of big, Aggie tackle, John Holmes. This was a consistent ground gainer which netted much "real estate" against the big Lincoln University line. In this action shot, Ed Stickle hits off tackle for short yardage.

EMORY MARKOVIC
1959 TEAM CAPTAIN

A real hustler . . . great competitor and team leader. Truly one of "Aggies" finest ball carriers.

The 1959-60 Aggie Varsity football squad was under the helm of a completely new and improved athletic department directed by Mr. Ned Linta. Head coach Chiodi, former Lehigh end coach, took the reigns and guided the Aggies to three wins. Assisting coach Chiodi in his new endeavor were Richard Carney, former Lehigh athlete and two former Aggie grid standouts, Steve Ferdo and Joseph Fulcoy.

Although the Aggies lost live of the eight pigskin contests this season the statistics were extremely impressive. They outscored their opponents 93-82 and excelled in defensive play.

At the successful football banquet on November 24, 1959, coach Chiodi effectively summed up the season by saying, "The team played well but had new coaches." Without a doubt it looks as though Aggie football is headed for a bright future.

Montclair State College tripped up the Aggies in the last seconds of the first game of the season and came out on the heavy end of a 10-7 score at Montclair.

The following game played on home soil proved successful for the Aggies gridders as they drove to a 22-7 win. The game was highlighted by the sharp defense of the Aggie line as they held their opponent, Lincoln University, to a mere total ground gain of twenty yards.

Another win was notched on Alumni Field as District of Columbia Teachers College fell to a 27-6 defeat before the Aggie eleven. Confidence was high and offensive play was sharp as the Aggies had no trouble in overcoming their opponents.

The next game proved to be the season's thriller as the largest crowd of the year watched Kutztown Teachers hand the Aggies an undeserving 7-6 loss. Pat Mihlfried's outstanding fourth quarter playing was not quite enough to pull the Aggies over the hump.

The last home game proved to be a success after a doubtful first quarter when Gallaudet College scored in the opening minutes of the contest. But touchdowns by Frantz, Crawford and Aman sparked the Aggies to a decisive 19-6 win.

The Aggies put forth their best effort of the season against highly favored King's College but came out on the short end of a 14-12 score. Led by captain Markovic, the Aggies never let up their outstanding team play as they battled to prove their worth to King's fans.

A sharp Millersville eleven proved to be too great a competition for the Aggies in the next game. The Aggies did well, however, in a 13-0 losing effort.

In the season's finale the Aggies, hampered by injuries struggled against a strong Trenton State College team but failed to produce a .500 season for their new coach Chiodi, in losing 19-0.

"A-DAY"

"A-Day" is the outstanding annual event of the college year.

Each year the students of the National Agricultural College set aside a weekend in May as an open house to entertain their families, friends, neighbors and others interested in Agriculture.

The students of the various majors spend months each year in preparing for the gala event.

"A-Day" is strictly a student affair. All work including planning, preparation, and financing is done by the students themselves.

The program consists of exhibits and demonstrations in each of the nine majors offered by the College. In addition, there are many special events such as the co-ed milking contest, the beard growing contest, and the log sawing contest.

The central theme of "A-Day" is student achievement. This affair affords student the opportunity to acquire practical knowledge which they can not acquire in the classroom. It also provides the student the opportunity to demonstrate those academic skills which they acquire at N. A. C.

This is the big tent, the center of the A-Day activities. The place where men become holders of prizes, the place which resounds with cheers and sometimes laughter, the place which will be remembered by young and old alike for its contests and exhibitions and the place in which, year after year, you will see some happy faces and some very serious ones.

Intermission under the big tent.

Technical looking, isn't it?

They look all right to me!

A prize winner in Agronomy.

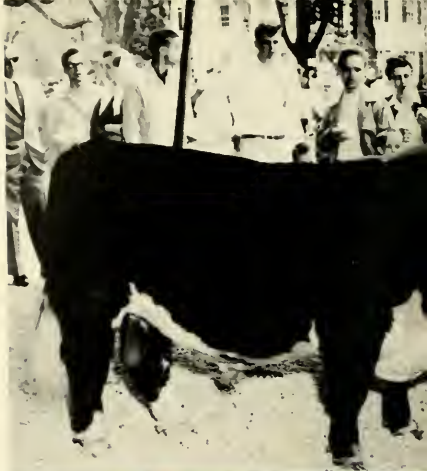

Take it from me lady, it is a Caladium!

There is nothing more inviting than a garden retreat.

Come on, straighten out!

43 Years Serving the Farm Industry with Quality Peebles' Products

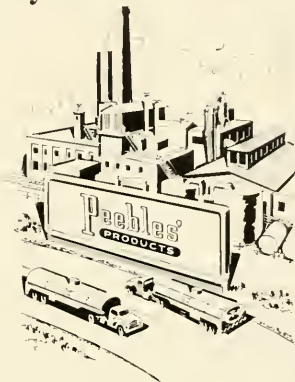

For over four decades Western has watched the progress of animal husbandry. As new methods developed and revolutionary concepts became accepted, a new science was born.

We have seen half-wild, tough-muscled cows develop into sleek, high-capacity milk producers; disease-ridden poultry flocks turn into heavy-thighed, deep-chested broilers and egg producing machines. Today, the trim, lean hog would turn up his delicate snout at his fierce, obese ancestors.

Feeds, too, have changed drastically and Western has pioneered the development of new and better milk nutriment for poultry and livestock. Peebles' products are specially formulated and carefully controlled to allow maximum efficiency for widely varying requirements. Our research laboratories and farm constantly seek new improvements. Our plants are located across the continent to assure a year around supply at low cost.

One thing has not changed. The Peebles' brand will always stand for unvarying high quality and feeding efficiency in our service to the farm industry.

should buy life insurance now because

The sooner you buy the less you will pay each year.

Your health may be impaired later, making it impossible to buy life insurance at any price.

You can complete your premium payments during your earning years and have your insurance fully paid up when you reach retirement age.

Your life insurance can provide cash or collateral for opportunities or emergencies, benefits for your dependents, retirement income that you cannot outlive.

Life insurance is the immediate, sure, safe way to create and maintain an estate planned to provide cash or income — the right amount at the right time.
